

E-FIGURE 121-2 The brachial plexus is comprised of mixed nerve roots from C5 to T1 that fuse into upper, middle, and lower trunks above the level of the clavicle and redistribute into lateral, posterior, and medial cords. (From Morton D, Peterson KD, Albertine KH: Gray's dissection guide for human anatomy, ed 2, Philadelphia, 2006, Churchill Livingstone.)