

FIGURE 25e-18 Secondary syphilis, demonstrating the papulosquamous truncal eruption.

FIGURE 25e-21 Mucous patches on the tongue of a patient with secondary syphilis. (Courtesy of Ron Roddy; with permission.)

FIGURE 25e-19 Secondary syphilis commonly affects the palms and soles with scaling, firm, red-brown papules.

FIGURE 25e-22 Petechial lesions in a patient with atypical measles. (Courtesy of Stephen E. Gellis, MD; with permission.)

FIGURE 25e-20 Condylomata lata are moist, somewhat verrucous intertriginous plaques seen in secondary syphilis.